

Environment and Society Colloquium
Commemorating Earth Day 2005
Friday, April 8, 2005

Center for the Arts (CFA)
University at Buffalo, North Campus

PROGRAM (Updated April 6)

Prequel: Department of Philosophy Seminar with Dr. Mark Sagoff: "Locke was right: Nature has little economic value," Thursday April 7, 4:00 pm, 141 Park Hall.

- 8:15 – 9:15     Set up Posters and Exhibits (CFA Atrium, coffee served)
- 9:30 – 10:30    Workshops (concurrent)
- a. Invasive species and the Great Lakes (Screening Room). A discussion of Dr. Mark Sagoff's: "Do non-native species threaten the natural environment?" with Dr. Sagoff and Mr. Charles O'Neil of NY Sea Grant.
  - b. An experience in natural building (CFA 118). A presentation by Lindsay Clark and Sandy Heiser (UB Green) followed by discussion.
- 11:00 am        Welcome: Alan J. Rabideau, Director, Environment and Society Institute
CFA Screening Room
- 11:05 am        Keynote Speaker: Dr. Mark Sagoff (Screening Room)
Senior Research Scholar, University of Maryland School of Public Policy
On the death of environmentalism
Has the emphasis on "sound science" killed environmentalism?
- 12:00 noon-1:00 pm   Posters and Exhibits (Atrium, light lunch served)
More than 40 posters and exhibits covering a wide range of environmental topics, with cash prizes awarded for undergraduate and graduate posters
- 1:05 pm         Keynote Speaker: Dr. Pat Brezonik (Screening Room)
University of Minnesota, National Science Foundation
Global Water Quality: Implications for Supply and Health
The role of science and technology in solving the problems of an abused and over-used resource
- 2:15 pm         Break
- 2:30 pm         Student Awards for Poster Presentations (Screening Room)
- 2:45 pm         Environmental research and the National Science Foundation
(Screening Room). A presentation by Dr. Pat Brezonik (NSF) followed by discussion.

.....
Concurrent Event: Center for the Arts Atrium
Terra Verte, Observations on Contemporary Environmental Issues, a juried exhibition of visual art sponsored by the UB Department of Art and the UB Environmental Task Force.

Visit www.buffalo.edu/esi for more information!