FILM: “WHO IS DAYANI CRYSTAL?”

The Buffalo Humanities Festival and Center for Global Media present:

“Who is Dayani Cristal?” tells the story of one migrant who found himself in that deadly stretch of desert known as “the corridor of death” and how one life becomes testimony to the tragic results of the U.S. war on immigration.

Date: Thursday, September 25
Time: 5:00 p.m.
Place: Screening Room, Center for the Arts 112, North Campus
BUFFALO HUMANITIES FESTIVAL: “MIGRATION NATION, MOVING STORIES”

How did we get here? The first annual Buffalo Humanities Festival will use migration stories to help answer that deceptively simple question. In literature, history, art and music, people have explored what it means to uproot oneself and cross borders. Today, conversations about migration and immigration too frequently reach an ideological impasse. The festival – a day and a half of talks, discussions, and performances – will go beyond the buzzwords to investigate the human dimension of migration. We’ll discuss refugees fleeing political oppression, highly skilled professionals coveted by their new nations, impoverished peasants seeking only the chance to support their families, and more.

Date: Saturday, September 27
Time: 10:30-5:30
Place: SUNY Buffalo State/Burchfield Penney Art Center
