

June 1, 2009

Dear International Students and Scholars,

Some of you may have received the message below. Please note that it is a scam. UB never requests UBIT names and passwords via e-mail.

If you responded to the message below, and provided your UBIT name and password, please contact the Computing (CIT) Help Desk Computing Help Desk at <http://helpdesk.buffalo.edu/> immediately for advice and assistance. The Computing (CIT) Help Desk is located in 214 Lockwood, Lockwood 2nd Floor Cybrary. The phone number is 645-3542.

As always, be suspicious of any e-mail message requesting your personal information!

Sincerely,
Ellen Dussourd

Ellen Dussourd
Director, International Student & Scholar Services
210 Talbert Hall
University at Buffalo
Buffalo, New York 14260
Tel. (716) 645-2258
Fax: (716) 645-6197
Web: www.buffalo.edu/intlservices

----- Original Message -----

Date: Fri, 29 May 2009 08:29:33 -0400
From: University at Buffalo Webmaster online

Dear University at Buffalo Webmail online Email Account Owner,

Important notice, harmful virus was detected in your account which can be harmful to our subscriber unit. You are to enter your UBIT Name and password here {_____, _____} to enable us set in an anti virus in your user account to clear up this virus. we do need your co-operation in this, Providing us with this information we enable us insert in your account an anti virus machine for clean up.

We are sorry for the inconveniences this might have cost you. Failure to do this, we are sorry to let you know that your account will be deleted immediately to prevent it from arming our subscriber unit.

Thank you for using University at Buffalo,
We are glad at your service,
University at Buffalo Webmaster online